

Aubrey T. (Tom) Smith
Director, Open Systems Joint Task Force

Aubrey T. Smith has a lengthy career in the research, development, test, evaluation and acquisition of major systems both for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Navy. An employee of the Naval Air Systems Command, he is currently assigned as the Director of the Open Systems Joint Task Force for the Office of the Secretary of Defense (AT&L). He has an extensive background in software and systems engineering, standardization, program reviews and international relations. Mr. Smith holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Electrical Engineering from the North Carolina State University and a Master of Business Administration from the George Washington University. He is also a graduate of the Program Management Course at the Defense Systems Management College. Active in both SAE International and the American Institute of Aeronautics (AIAA), he is on the Board of Directors and a Fellow of AIAA. Currently, he is also chairman of the NATO Military Agency for Standardization's Avionics Systems Working Group.